

姓名 Name	Kang, Peter
職稱 Title	Professor
最高學歷 Academic background	Ph.D. University of Minnesota, USA
研究專長 Fields of Interest	Pre-modern History of Taiwan, Toponymic Studies
課程講授 Courses	History of Taiwan (co-teaching w/ Pan Tsung-yi), History, Memory and Identity (co-teaching w/ Pan Tsung-yi & Mattel Hsu), Onomastics and Folkways (co-teaching w/ Wen-chuan Huang & Yun-tsui Yeh)
研究室 Office	Humanities and Social Sciences Building III, Room 313
電話 Phone	+886-3-8905219
Email	kang@gms.ndhu.edu.tw
出版品 Publications in English and Japanese	P. Kang (2020), "The 18 oddities of Vietnam: Chinese folklorization of contemporary Vietnamese society," Journal of Viet Nam Hoc 1(1): 4-19. P. Kang (2019), "Persistence or Localization? A Preliminary Inquiry into the Hokkien Tombstone Inscriptions of Taiping, Malaysia," Journal of Monsoon Asia Studies 9. P. Kang (2019), "Naming and Re-naming on Formosa: The Toponymic Legacies of the VOC Cartographies on the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century Western Maps," in Martijn Storms, Mario Cams, Imre Josef Demhardt & Ferjan Ormeling (eds.), Mapping Asia: Cartographic Encounters Between East and West. Cham: Springer, pp. 95-108. P. Kang (2018), "The VOC and the Geopolitics of Southern Formosa: The case of Lonckjouw," Journal of Social Sciences and Philosophy 30(4): 485-504. P. Kang (2018), "Dual and multiple naming in the South China Sea: The cases of the Pratas Island and Scarborough Shoal," The Society for East Sea (ed.), Dual Naming: Feasibility and Benefits. Seoul: The Society for East Sea, pp. 113-123. P. Kang (2018), "The Influence of the Kuroshio Current on place naming on Green Island, Taiwan," Island Studies Journal 13(1): 185-194. P. Kang (2018), "The Dutch Commemorative Toponyms in the Seventeenth Century East Asia, Based on the Cartographical Works Left by the Dutch East India Company (VOC)," in Mirela Altic, Imre Josef Demhardt, and Soetkin Vervust (eds.), Dissemination of Cartographic Knowledge. Berlin: Springer, pp. 257-267. P. Kang (2018), "Seeking 'Roots' in Taiwan: 'Red Hair' and the Dutch Princess of Eight Treasures," in J. Bruce Jacobs and Peter Kang (eds.), Changing Taiwanese Identities. London: Routledge, pp. 27-38. P. Kang (2017), "From Whale Bone (Walvis Been) to Table Mountain (Taffelberch): the place naming of the Dutch on the landscapes of the seventeenth-century Taiwan," Nomina Africana: Journal of the Names Society of Southern Africa: Tydskrif van die Naamkundevereniging van Suider-Afrika 31(1): 69-76. P. Kang (2016), "Colonial Enterprise, National Glory and Regime Legitimacy: the

Commemorative Street-naming after Geographical Names in Hải Phòng, Vietnam,” Journal of Geographical Sciences 85: 1-26.

P. Kang (2016), “From Cairo to the Nationalistic Geography of China: the street-naming in Taipei City immediately after WWII,” Onoma: Journal of the International Council of Onomastic Sciences 51: 45-74.

P. Kang (2016), “Koxinga and His Maritime Regime in the Popular Historical Writings of Post-Cold War Taiwan,” in Tonio Andrade and Xing Hang (eds.), Sea Rovers, Silk, and Samurai: Maritime East Asia in World History, 1500-1750. Honolulu: University of Hawai'i Press, pp. 335-352.

P. Kang (2016), “Boulevardization, Commercial Speculation, and Regional Identity: renaming of urban arterial roads in the post-Cold War Taiwan,” in Peter Jordan and Paul Woodman (eds.), Place-Name Changes. Hamburg: Verlag Dr. Kovač, pp. 475-492

P. Kang (2015), “From East Sea / South China Sea to Southeast Asia Sea? The geopolitics of marine toponym,” The Society for East Sea (ed.), Sea Names: Heritage, Perception and International Relations. Seoul: The Society for East Sea, pp. 49-61.

P. Kang (2015), “Remapping National Geography in the Street-naming of Hồ Chí Minh City,” Journal of Geographical Sciences 77: 31-48.

P. Kang (2015), “Whose cultural heritage and in what sense? The naming of MRT station in Taiwan,” in Sungjae Choo (ed.), Geographical Names as Cultural Heritage. Seoul: Kyung Hee University Press, pp. 168-202